Goa

A Heritage of Peace, A Lifetime of Belonging

Goa is more than just a destination—it is a way of life, where history, culture, and nature come together in perfect harmony. Surrounded by lush greenery, serene landscapes, and sun-kissed beaches, it offers a peaceful escape from the chaos and pace of modern living.

From its charming villages and vibrant traditions to its timeless Indo-Portuguese architecture, Goa carries a unique character that continues to inspire generations. The restoration of old Goan heritage villas further preserves the soul of this land, breathing new life into homes that reflect its rich architectural legacy.

In Goa, every day feels slower, calmer, and more meaningful—making it the ideal place for a timeless home away from home.

Villa La Perola

Socorro - Goa

Restoring our first 100 year old Villa

Tucked amidst the lush landscapes of Goa, this century-old Portuguese-era villa by Benicio Homes has been thoughtfully transformed to balance heritage with modern luxury. Led by developer Aqeeb Mapari and architect Elizabeth Kurian, the renovation preserves the villa's original contours and historic character while introducing refined contemporary elements. The vision was to create a spacious, light-filled home that could comfortably accommodate a growing family without losing the soul of the original structure. Traditional architectural details were carefully retained and seamlessly integrated with modern functionality. The result is a timeless Goan villa that effortlessly blends old-world charm with contemporary elegance.

Villa La Perola

Socorro - Goa

A home designed for family

The project explores how a historic Goan home can be transformed into a residence of contemporary grandeur and luxury. Developer Aqeeb Mapari envisioned an entrance that felt bold, expansive, and imposing, setting the tone for the entire home.

This led to the replacement of the villa's traditional balcão with a larger verandah and entryway designed to create a stronger sense of scale. While the renovation embraced modern luxury, many original elements of the structure were carefully preserved. The external walls, moldings, and defining architectural details continue to reflect the villa's historic identity. Signature laterite stone walls were retained and seamlessly integrated into the renewed design.

New interventions were thoughtfully introduced to ensure the transition between old and new felt natural and cohesive. Traditional features such as the original roof system were adapted with modern materials to improve durability while maintaining their timeless aesthetic.

Existing moldings were extended into elegant pilasters, adding refinement without losing authenticity.

Even newly introduced Juliet balconies were designed as a respectful tribute to Goan-Portuguese architectural traditions.

While the villa balances heritage architecture with contemporary design, it remains, above all, a warm and inviting family home offering a perfect blend of privacy and togetherness.

More than a restoration, the villa represents a thoughtful reinvention of a historic Goan residence. Rich in character and detail, it seamlessly combines the charm of the past with the grandeur of modern luxury.

Currently restoring our next 100 year old villa at Salvador du Mundo

Following the successful restoration of a century-old Portuguese-era villa in Goa, our next project continues the journey of reimagining heritage homes for contemporary living. Rooted in a deep respect for history, the restoration seeks to preserve original architectural character while introducing refined modern comforts and timeless luxury. Every element—from traditional materials and handcrafted details to thoughtfully integrated new interventions—will be carefully curated to create a seamless dialogue between past and present. More than a renovation, the project is envisioned as a soulful reinvention of Goan heritage architecture for generations to come.

Restoring Heritage. Redefining Luxury

Rooted in the timeless charm of Goan-Portuguese architecture, this thoughtfully restored heritage villa is envisioned as a seamless blend of history, elegance, and modern luxury merging the timeless soul of the 1930s with the refinement of 2026.

The expansive residence, set on a sprawling 10,000 sq.ft. estate, will feature five spacious bedrooms, a grand living room, and a large kitchen and dining area designed for effortless family living and entertaining. Outdoors, a large swimming pool with an adjoining patio and deck area will open into beautifully landscaped gardens, creating a private oasis of relaxation and leisure. An attic space adds character and versatility to the home, while ample parking for three cars ensures everyday convenience.

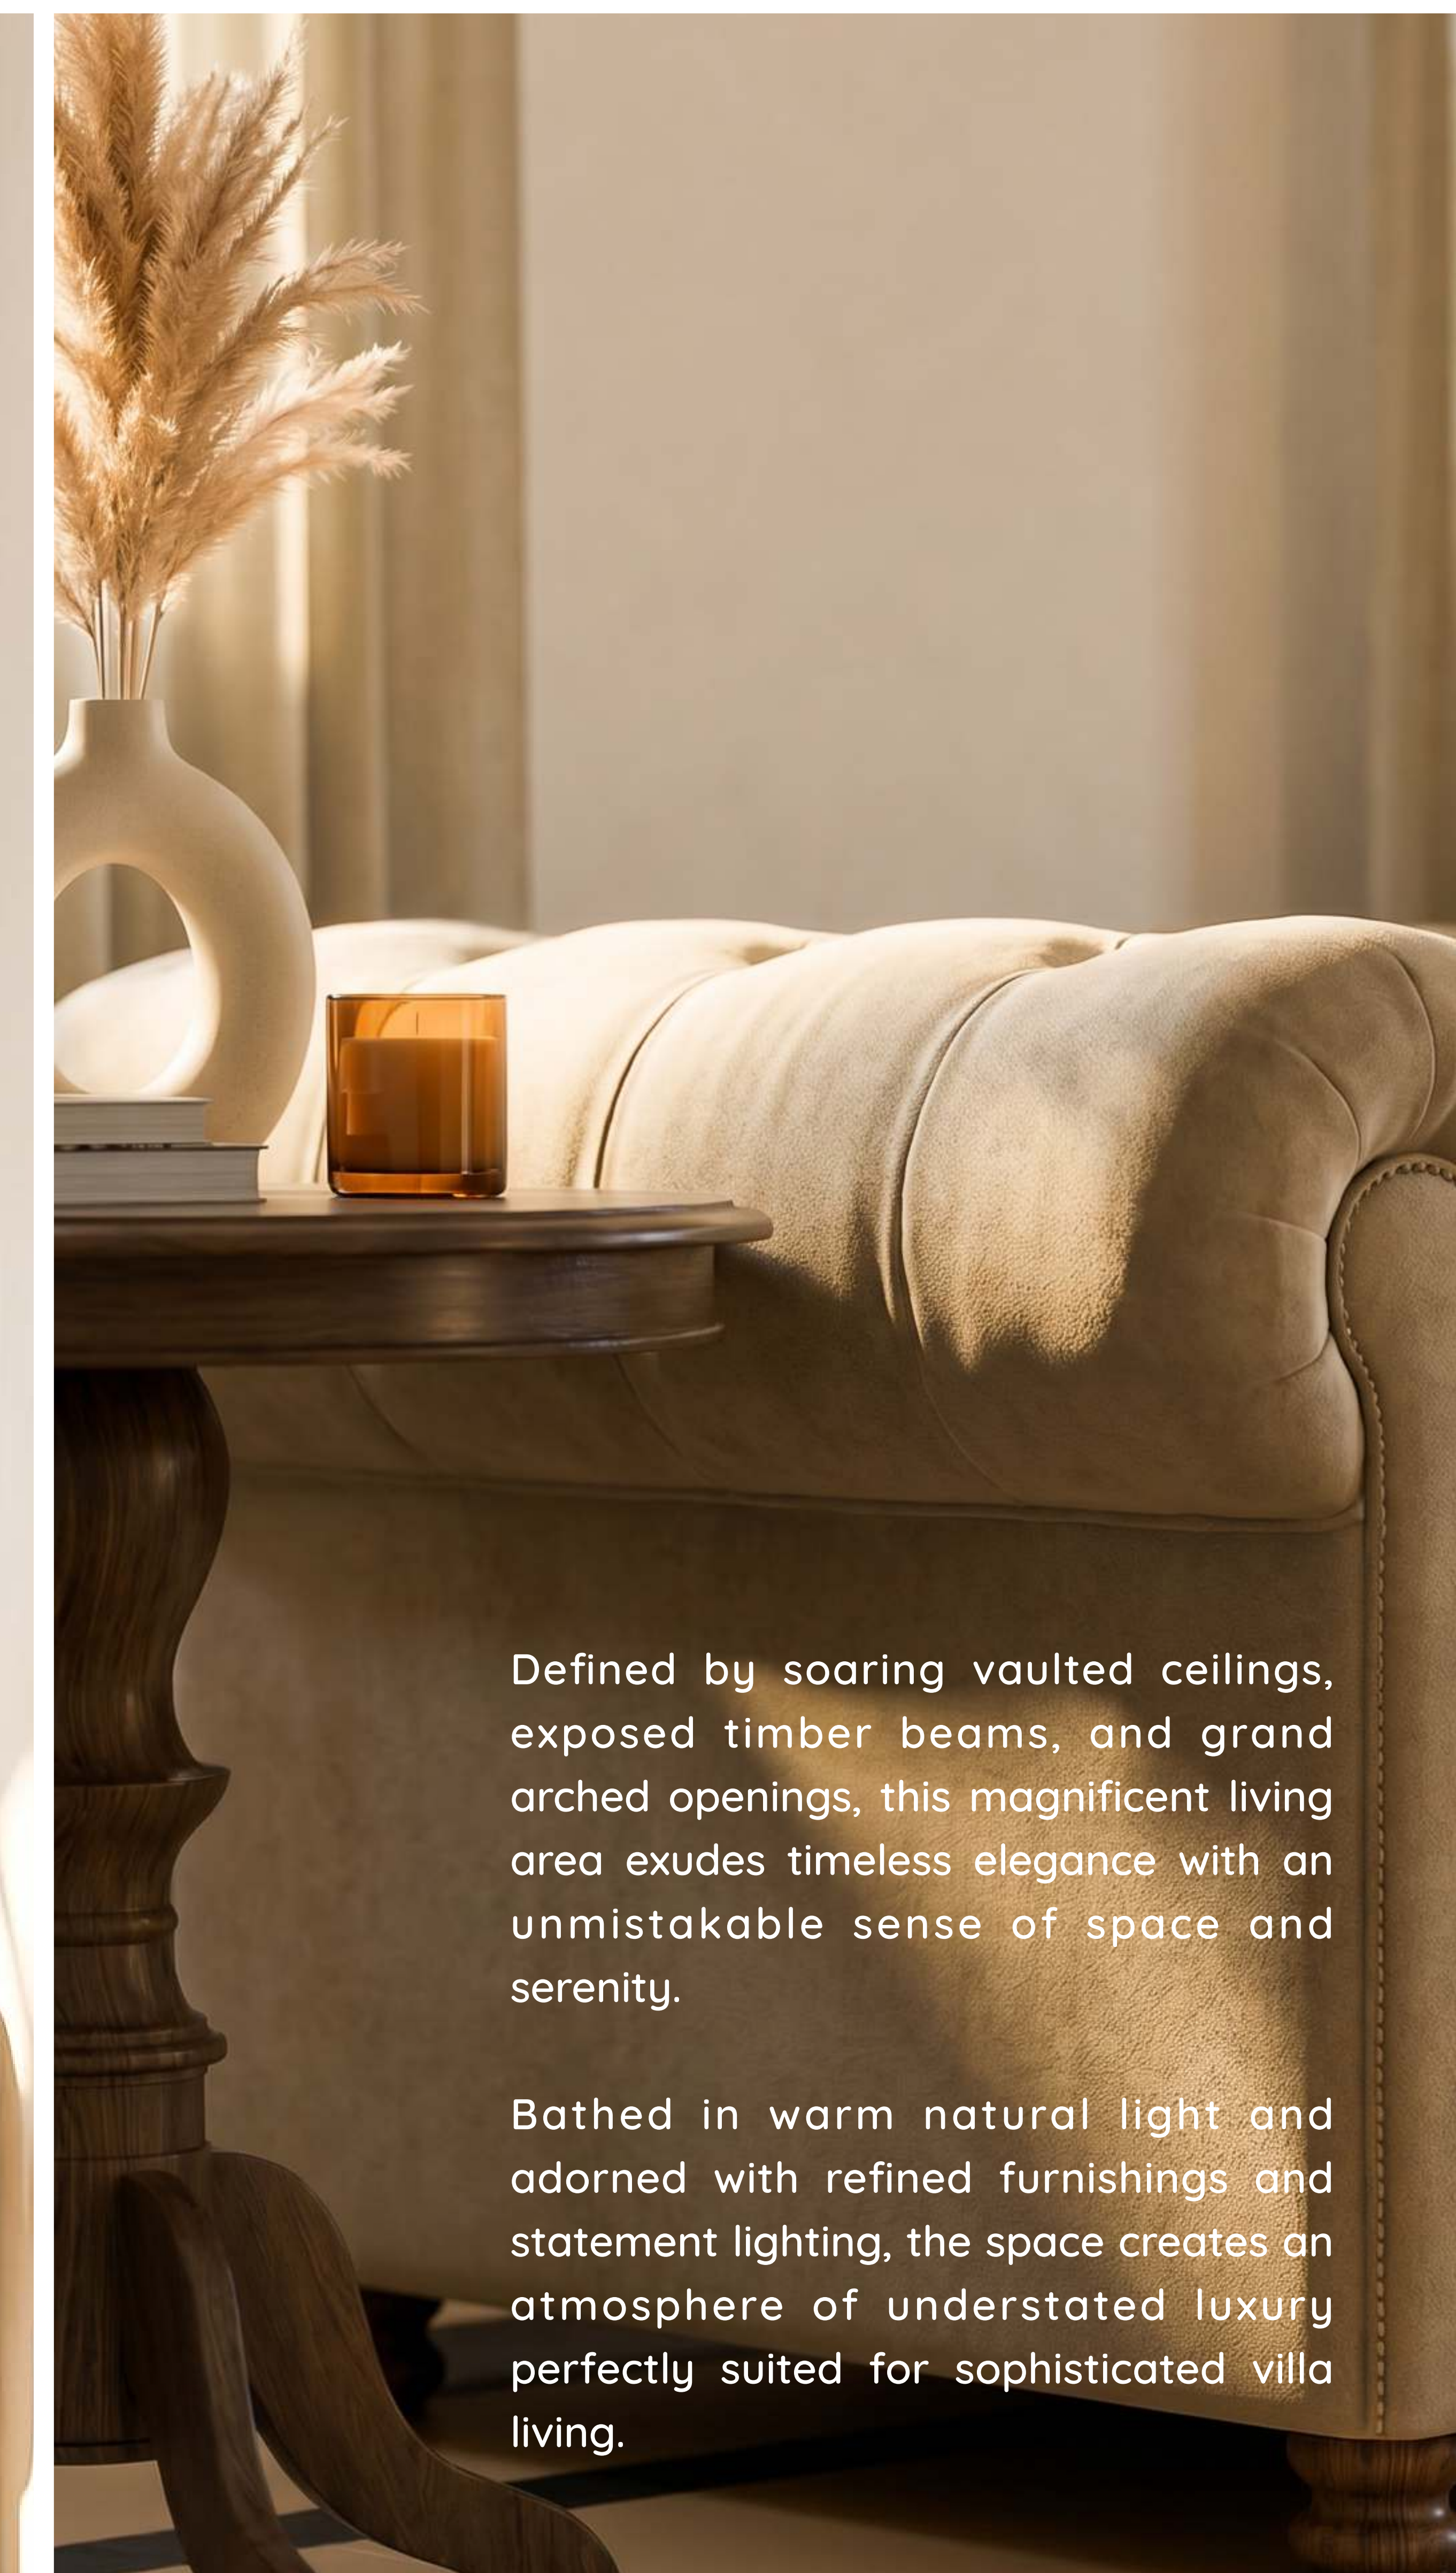

Preserving the essence of traditional Goan homes, the property will also feature its own well, providing a sustainable source of abundant water.

More than just a restored villa, it is envisioned as a timeless sanctuary, your home in Goa for generations to come.
